

RECALLS TALES OF CHAMPLAIN

Three Hundredth Anniversary In Plattsburg, New York, Of Discovery Of Country By Frenchmen.

TAFT GIVES A HISTORICAL TALK

Brilliant Address By New York's Senator On Interesting Subject—Dwells Upon The Significance Of The Occasion.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Plattsburg, N. Y., July 7.—President Taft as the guest of New York and Vermont at the Champlain tricentenary commissions found himself the central figure today in a series of events in connection with the celebration of the 300th anniversary of the discovery of the Champlain country, that promised no cessation of activities until far into the night.

On his way to Plattsburg this morning President Taft and his party paid a brief visit to the Catholic Summer School at Cliftonville. Later the President and other guests were entertained at luncheon at the residence of Smith M. Wood. This afternoon a military parade in which State, Federal and Canadian troops participated, was reviewed by the President, the ambassadors, governors and other distinguished guests. At the literary exercises that followed the chief address was delivered by Senator Elihu Root of New York.

Dwelling upon the part played by the Iroquois Indians in the early history of America, Senator Root in an address replete with historic facts, paid a high tribute to Samuel de Champlain and to those French soldiers and explorers who shared in the early struggle for America. Senator Root pointed out the influence which the events attending the discovery of Lake Champlain 300 years ago had upon the issue of the great struggle between France and Great Britain for the control of the continent. "The struggle between the two white races for the opportunity to colonize and expand and between the two systems of law and civil polity, for the direction and development of civilization among the millions who were to people the vast region extending from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the Rio Grande to the frozen limits of the north."

Relating the events of the trip made by Champlain late in June, 1609, accompanied by a few white companions and a great army of Algonquin Indians, Senator Root told how, at the battle of Ticonderoga, where Champlain's party came upon a war party of the Iroquois, the French explorer fired his arquebus upon the Indians. "The shot from Champlain's arquebus had determined a part that was to be played in the approaching conflict by the most powerful military force among the Indians of North America. It had made the confederacy of the Iroquois and all its nations and dependencies the implacable enemies of the French and the fast friends of the English for all the long struggle that was to come."

The superiority of the five civilized tribes and their systematic form of government were given by Senator Root as two of the primary causes for the ultimate defeat of the Iroquois and their Indian allies by the English and the Iroquois. Speaking of those Indians, he said they, of all the inhabitants of the New World, were the most terrible foes and the most capable of organized and sustained warfare; and of all the inhabitants north of Mexico, they were the most civilized and intelligent.

Senator Root reviewed the early attempts made to colonize the new continent, and the privations and difficulties which were met by the colonists. "At Quebec, twenty-eight Frenchmen with Champlain and his brave followers, a Canadian waterman and in the spring of 1609, but eight remained alive," said Senator Root. "In this same month of July, 1609, the Half Moon of Henry Hudson was rounding dangers in Penobscot Bay after her voyage

Results of Battle. The battle of Poltava, fought July 8, 1709, is regarded as one of the "decisive battles" of history. On the issue of the conflict depended the supremacy of northern Europe. The victory placed Russia among the powers of civilized Europe. Charles XII, was defeated and with him fell Sweden from the high estate to which he had raised it. Had the heroic Swede come out of the battle a victor instead of a fugitive, Peter the Great might have remained Peter the Great of one of the "Czars of Moscow." Interesting semi-barbarians, rulers of a country so far off from Europe that the latter viewed it with a curiosity unmingled with apprehension.

When Charles XII. came to the Swedish throne, Sweden was one of the first powers of Europe. Her soldiers were among the bravest and the best disciplined, and her destiny seemed to be that of a leader among nations. Once at least in the heroic, but meteoric career of Charles, he had the opportunity to dictate a peace which would have given Sweden an undisturbed pre-eminence in northern Europe, but he permitted this occasion to go by. He had dethroned the king of Poland and broke the czar's ambassador on the wheel as a traitor. Peter, the Great, prepared for the vengeance of a Czar, prepared for the struggle of a Czar, triumphed, however, continued his triumph, and invading Russia at the head of his army, marched by almost the very route which Napoleon followed a little more than a century later, and shared almost identically the same fate. Charles at last, in the heart of Russia, with an exhausted army, was overwhelmingly defeated at Poltava, and his conquests were at an end.

It was not a great battle judged by the numbers involved. It is doubtful if Charles ever had 50,000 under his command on more than one occasion. At Poltava he must have had fewer. He was beaten by dint of one decided kind of hard fighting, and once defeated there was no rallying. He had lost his communications; no retreat was open to him. There was nothing left for him but flight.

Sweden fell with Charles XII. and it was the fall of Sweden that justified Cressy in placing Poltava among "decisive battles." It decided the vexed question which should be ascendant along the Baltic, Russia or Sweden, in favor of Russia. Sweden at the peace was compelled to cede to Russia Esthonia, Livonia and a large slice of Finland. Thereafterward the progress of the reduction of Sweden, if not rapid, was steady. Diplomacy might hold it, but could not turn it backward. A century after Poltava, Russia gained complete possession of Finland, and when on the readjustment that followed the peace of 1815 Swedish Pomerania became Prussian, Sweden became a purely peninsular nation, confined for its isolation by permission to seize Norway, which it has since lost.

CELEBRATE THE RUSSIAN VICTORY

TWO HUNDREDTH ANNIVERSARY OF BATTLE OF POLTAVA.

WAS MAKING OF COUNTRY

Had Sweden Won Russia Would Have Sunk Back Into Ignominy Instead of Becoming World Power.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Poltava, Russia, July 7.—The czar was astray early today to inaugurate the festivities in connection with the celebration of the 200th anniversary of the battle of Poltava, in which the Russian administered a crushing defeat to the redoubtable Charles XII. of Sweden. Accompanied by other members of the imperial family and attended by a large and brilliant suite, his imperial Majesty reviewed the great body of troops assembled for the occasion and witnessed the pageants and other festivities that were included in the day's program.

The great parade which marked the opening of the celebration beggars description. Column after column in variegated uniform marched in splendid array past the czar and his attendants. Surrounding his Majesty were the generals of the army, the ministers of state, the grand dukes, and the military attachés of the foreign embassies. Extensive stands were provided for the invited guests, among whom were official representatives of scores of municipalities and men of great prominence from all parts of the empire.

Tomorrow, which will be the concluding day of the celebration, will witness a spectacle the like of which has not been seen in Russia since the coronation ceremonies in Moscow. The spectacle will be of a combined military and historical character. The second pageant has been arranged by Mazulofsky, the battle painter, and Mouraviev, the military historian. The battle of Poltava will be enacted as it was fought two hundred years ago, part of the Russian forces representing the Swedes. The climax, the costumed chiefs laying the Swedish standards at the feet of Peter the Great, will be taken from Katchubov's picture.

TIDINGS FROM GOLDEN STATE

NEWS OF THOSE WHO HAVE CROSSED GREAT DIVIDE.

MANY FROM JANESVILLE

O. E. Newton, a Former Resident, Writes New Year Letter From Los Angeles, Cal.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 30, 1909.
It is said that opportunities come at some time to everyone, and this seems an opportunity to say a few things about some of my old time friends that I had the pleasure of meeting at the Wisconsin reunion held at Sycamore Grove, June 26.

To many this was an eventful day. "Father Time" unclipped his look of "Siemola" and turned the pages back to the youthful days of many a white-haired pioneer of the good old Badger state. It was a most enjoyable occasion to both old and young, and were it not for the minor that reflected back from the faces of great friends, one would scarce realize that Father Time had left a foot print in the journey of life. To many it was a new experience. As in the past, there were surprises as well as disappointments. All were looking for old, familiar faces, and more than one turned away with a saddened look and a sigh that denoted disappointment and loneliness—a feeling that only those far from home and loved ones can understand.

To tell you of all the Wisconsin people we met, would weary your readers. All were supposed to rejoice, and the first opportunity I have will furnish you the names of those who registered from "Old Rock."

One of the first to greet me was Mr. Frank H. True, one time citizen of the Angel City, and secretary of the Wisconsin Association, to whom much credit is due for his efforts in organizing and otherwise promoting the same. He is one of the 1,450 red-robed missionaries that are devoting their lives to furnishing homes for those that desire to dwell in this beautiful land that was made when God smiled.

Another friend to greet me was Charles E. Merrill, who left Janesville many years ago, and no doubt will be remembered by the "old timers." He has retired from business, but a comfortable income is at peace with all the world, and—goes fishing with Frank Gray.

C. I. Milmore, who resides in Pasadena with the other millionaires, devoting his time to various things, besides giving good advice to his fellow man, greeted me with a cordial handshake, and with a smile that "won't come off," said the world was all right.

Another man who makes the world all the better for being in it, was George S. Shibley. Properly placed him on the front seat, and the world looks good to him. He lately retired from business because another man wanted it.

Another good Bower City boy, Mr. W. F. Newbury, is looking for a chrome from "Buddy," and was about the proudest man on the grounds. He said he would rather be a father to the "kid" than be president. He is holding a desk in the store department of the Salt Lake railway.

If the friends of that great and good man, W. H. McDougal, one time conductor on the C. & N. W. Ry., came here and wanted a good time, and a ride in his auto, they must not fail to hunt him up. He is noted for taking good care of his friends. Any one desiring any information about ranching and other things, can be cheerfully (?) accommodated.

There is a good man living at Long Beach that I could say a whole lot of good things about—a man that devoted many years in his efforts to reform the "handle of the Corn Exchange." His name is Frank Gray, change. His name is Frank Gray, change. Since coming to Long Beach he has devoted much of his time to catching "snakes" and other fish, from the "briny deep," and they do say that he landed one that weighed "old ocean blue" nearly a foot.

There is one man in this city who extended a helping hand to me in my hour of need and to whom I am most grateful. A man who, as employer and friend, ever greeted me with a pleasant smile, a cheery word and a cordial handshake—a man ever loyal to his friends, and just to his enemies, if he had any. It's no other than W. B. Strong, one time agent at Janesville. I still hold the first place he gave me, and the first one I ever had—an old Milwaukee and Mississippi fly, purchased May 25th, 1890. It's not for sale. It is to be regretted that he has nervous trouble than confers him to a chair most of the time. He enjoys an auto ride nearly every day, is very cheerful, and is always glad to meet his friends. He is very pleasantly located at the "Cambridge Union."

The surprise of surprise was to meet the man who years ago, presided over the "high grades" in the Haworth City school—Warren D. Parker. Nearly half a century had passed since we clasped hands, and when Father Time has marked the years, yet in spite it was but yesterday. Boyhood incidents and associations were recalled and for a brief time we were back in the old home town once more. Mr. Parker resides in Pasadena, the "city beautiful," noted for its wealth and intelligence—the abiding place of many noted people.

There is another good man here who has a host of friends in the old home town, and that he cherishes fond memories of, and that man is Mr. J. H. Bulch. Neither he nor his most estimable wife are bringing much about good health, but they bear their afflictions with Christian fortitude. They are always glad to welcome friends. Their son, Carlin, holds a very responsible position in the general manager's office of the Salt Lake Ry.

There is another man that escaped from Janesville not long ago, an old veteran of the C. & N. W. Ry., and who ought to be pensioned. His name is "Charley Potter" and he's on the "rock pile" most of the time, superintending a "cracker machine"—at least it cracks rock all right. His health is good, and if he could induce the "Red-headed Angel" not to keep tab on the passing years he would be content. Like all the rest of us, he does hate to grow old.

The "old-timers" will no doubt remember "Father Cheney's" boys—James and Frank—who left Janesville many years ago. James resides at Santa Monica, is in good health, and has no financial worries. Frank resides in Los Angeles. His health is not good and he is only able to work part of the time.

I call quite often on another good man from Janesville. He says his name is George Ward and that he was connected with the shoe factory there. He is in the shoe business here, and judging from the number of people that call on him he must be prospering.

Jerome B. Benda, an old-time farmer near Janesville, resides at 1708 West First street, where he will be pleased to meet all his old friends. He says if he had a harp and "halo" he'd be content to stay right here.

J. A. Cunningham, who devoted the day to greeting old-time friends, says that coming here gave him a new lease of life, and hopes that he will find all his old friends at next year's picnic.

H. H. Hawkins, of San Antonio, Tex., and his sister, Mrs. Libby Melvin, of Pasadena, found many of their Janesville friends. No doubt the old-timers will remember their father, who was short at the time Mayberry adorned a tree in the Court House square.

It gave us much pleasure to hold converse with Mrs. A. M. Martin and Miss Minnie Pritchard, daughters of Moses Pritchard. They reside at 549 South Hope street. Father Time has dealt very gently with them.

I'll refer to just one more of the good boys that used to make things interesting in the Bower City. It's no other than "Bill Fante"—today one of the solid insurance agents of this city. He is married, happy and content, and he does like to tell all about the things the other fellows do and for which he got the credit and the feeling.

My friends will please be particular in addressing letters to me to the street number—157 South Hancock—for there is another Owen E. Newton in the city. He claims to be an honest farmer from Michigan. He called on me, and after being assured that no one had been hanged on our family tree, held a political office, or written poetry, he seemed more cheerful, and has decided to remain in the city. I give this information for the reason that should the name appear in the police records my friends will give me the benefit of the doubt.

And now just a personal greeting to our friends. My first view of Janesville was from the top of a stage coach that conveyed passengers to and from Alton. Commencing as the youngest apprentice in "The Family Mosquito" office, published by Bushnell & Doty; then to the "Press," and under Whitrow & Sackett, I ended my service in the Times office under Bishop & Wright. Later I presided for nine years over depot news department at the old W. E. Patterson, I ended my railroad career five years ago at St. Paul, Minn., where I was agent for twenty-six years, having been in continuous service with the C. & N. W. Ry. for thirty-two years, the railroad service of forty-five years left me in ill-health—a misfortune that proved a blessing in so far as coming to this land of sunshine, that grows oranges on top and bubbles oil underneath; it's a rejuvenator, a life-prolonger, a soul purifier. It's the land where passing souls can rest on their way to the Promised Land.

The crowning event of my life was when I married the daughter of Mr. Francis Domb. To her I am indebted for all the happiness of manhood years. She joins me in a kindly greeting to all our old friends. Good night.

Body of George Pattle of Utters Corners Found Hanging From Rafter in Barn.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Utters Corners, July 6.—George Pattle, who resides on the Fred Morse farm, near the Spring Brook creamery, committed suicide Monday afternoon by hanging himself to a rafter in the barn. No reason for the deed was given, and the only cause for his rash act that can be assigned is that his mind became temporarily unbalanced by the intense heat. Mr. Pattle was thirty-four years of age and leaves a wife and one daughter to mourn his loss.

The children of Mr. and Mrs. George Hull are afflicted with the measles. Miss Nettie Farnsworth visited her cousin, Miss Edna Sherman, in Happy Hollow, Sunday.

THREE SALOONS SURMOUNT VETO

LICENSES MAYOR WOULDN'T SIGN WERE GRANTED.

AT THE COUNCIL MEETING

Permit Was Also Voted to William Carroll—No Action on the Druggists' Applications.

Over Mayor Carl's veto, by a vote of 8 to 2, the common council last evening granted saloon licenses to C. J. Flaherty, 29 North Main street; Paul Bahr, the Union House, 109 North First street; and T. S. Welch, 16 North Main street. Aldermen Clark and Kimball constituted the authority voting for rejection. The action was taken after the Mayor had announced his refusal to sign the three before-mentioned permits as well as those asked for by George Clark for 20 East Milwaukee street, Mrs. M. McShane, 506 West Milwaukee street, and Mrs. M. E. Rine, 512 West Milwaukee street. During another lengthy star chamber session the City Fathers discussed the matter pro and con, several of the aldermen vigorously protesting against the places of business left vacant on their block of the river, and the final decision regarding the council's course of action being reached through a compromise agreement.

Permit to William Carroll? At the opening of the session it was announced that William H. Carroll had posted $500 to accompany his bond and application for a license to conduct the saloon at 219 West Milwaukee street. This announcement was followed by another one to the effect that a sheriff's attachment for $84.25 of the amount on deposit had been issued in behalf of Frank Taylor and served by Deputy Sheriff William Dullin.

After the recess Alderman Evans reported that a majority of the license committee was in favor of granting Mr. Carroll's application. Objection interposed by City Attorney Maxfield: "I believe the money has been attached. If that is the case, how can you grant him a license until he has paid $500 that has not been attached?"

Deputy-Sheriff Dullin: "As I understand it, if you grant him a license this attachment is no go. If you don't, I get a chunk of the money."

City Attorney Maxfield: "I say that the city is taking chances by such a procedure."

Alderman Dullin: "I can't see how the money can be attached if it is in the hands of the city treasurer. Municipal funds cannot be attached, and I have legal authority for that."

City Attorney Maxfield: "That's all right. I have simply given you my opinion."

The license was then granted by a vote of 7 to 2, Aldermen Clark, Kimball, and Scott registering the negative protest. It remains to be seen, however, whether or not the Mayor will sign this permit and Mr. Carroll will be unable to open his place until the Mayor has done so, or the council, at the meeting two weeks hence, has granted the permit over his veto.

Drug Permits Held Up.
The three licenses granted over the Mayor's veto, were passed upon in a group. Ald. Evans at first undertook to have them voted upon separately, but he amended his motion to include all three when Ald. Sherdin strenuously objected on the grounds that it had been the understanding at the secret session that all were to be passed upon at the same time. He would either vote upon them collectively, or not at all.

In the matter of permits to sell liquor which were asked for by the eight druggists, the license committee, at Ald. Evans' request, was again granted further time.

Matters of Finance.
The finance committee's report on bills was adopted and the council voted that orders should be drawn payable from the general fund to the First National bank in the sum of $504.17 to satisfy City Note No. 108; in the sum of $1,925.51 to pay Notes 110, 111, and 112; and in the sum of $2,814 to meet notes 109 and 113 and reimburse certain saloon-keepers who deposited $500 each, in case licenses should be denied them.

On motion of Chairman Brown the clerk was directed to notify the four banks that the city was desirous of continuing the arrangement for the past fiscal year whereby the funds were paid on call balances. The interest money paid during the past twelve months amounted to $1,900, according to Mr. Brown, and the banks would not submit competitive bids for the money.

The city treasurer's report for June was accepted. On motion of Chairman Buchholz of the committee on sewers, the street assessment committee's reports on the amount due Contractors Ryan & Finley for construction work in District No. 3 and Mulholland & Son for work in District 10, were adopted, and the clerk was directed to draw orders in their favor for $291.45 and $236.22, respectively, payable from the district sewer funds. The mayor and clerk were directed to sign and deliver to them certificates of special assessment to cover the balances.

On motion of Chairman Richardson of the police committee, the clerk was directed to draw orders on the treasurer for $2 each, payable to J. D. Jensen, Michael Panning, William Saxby, Sam Doran, George Palmer, and William Dullin for their services as special policemen on July 5th and also an order in favor of Fred Bencke for nine days' work. Mayor Carl's appointment of Officer Bencke as special policeman to serve until Sept. 14 was confirmed.

Departmental Reports.
Favorable action was taken on the municipal cost report for June showing that fees, fines, and penalties amounting to $141.61 had been collected; also on the board of education's report showing that orders totaling $5,293.31 had been drawn during the same month; and the street commissioner's report on new walks needed.

The bond of Claude Hendricks as the new member of the fire and police commission was accepted. Similar action was taken with regard to those

The bond of Claude Hendricks as the new member of the fire and police commission was accepted. Similar action was taken with regard to those furnished by Oscar Hand, second-hand dealer, and junk-dealers J. Delich, M. Goldfish, William Mirpolsky, and Rotsteln Bros.

Petitions and Protests.
The fire and water committee was granted further time for the consideration of a petition from certain owners of property on Rugee avenue for an extension of the water mains.

A communication from several score of property-owners protesting against the proposed macadamizing of North High, Madison, and Washington streets next season as unnecessary and burdensome and insisting that the thoroughfares could be put in as good a condition as Terrace street at one-fourth the cost of improvements, according to present plans, was accepted and placed on file. Atty. John Cunningham, who spoke for the petitioners, declared that they were perfectly willing to have the cement curbs put in but that they did not think that the travel on these highways was sufficient to warrant the laying of heavy, deep macadam. If the streets should be repaired to a depth of four inches, they thought it would be quite sufficient for all purposes.

Wilson Lane, George S. Parker, William F. Palmer, and others addressed the council in behalf of much-desired sewer extensions on Harrison street, Court street, and Garfield and Milwaukee avenues. The council took the matter under advisement and will inspect the premises before the next meeting.

Street Improvements.
A resolution calling for the improvement of North Bluff street from North First to Glen streets, by the laying of cement curbs and gutters, and directing the street assessment committee to view the premises and assess the benefits and damages, was passed. The same committee was directed to receive proposals for the construction of cement curbs and gutters on Washington and Terrace streets in front of the park; also for the building of a covered cement gutter across the park; also for the building of a covered cement gutter across the park and Washington street.

City Engineer Korch's grade for Racine street, from Bluff to Logan street, was accepted. He was directed to file a sidewalk grade for the east side of Racine street, from Court street to St. Lawrence avenue.

The city engineer was directed to rebuild a 10-foot piece of sidewalk in front of the Adams school that has been badly damaged; and lay a walk on the south side of School street in front of the Webster school.

Directions were given to the street commissioner to construct gutters on Jackson street on the north side of Pleasant street and two across South Pearl street on the north and south sides of Pleasant street; procure material and build drains at all the South Main street intersections from St. Lawrence street to Racine street; and purchase two carloads of paving brick.

Officers to Close.
On motion of Ald. Scott, the council voted that the city clerk and city treasurer's offices be closed at one o'clock on Saturday afternoons during July and August.

PUBLIC INSPECTION INVITED.
On the Laboratory of the Pinkham Medicine Company at Lynn, Mass., is a large sign which reads as follows: "Public Inspection Invited from 8:00 a. m. until 12:00 p. m.—Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co."

WIFE OF A CONGRESSMAN FILES OWN DIVORCE SUIT

Mrs. James S. Cox of Dayton, O., Charges Her Husband with Extreme Cruelty.

Dayton, O., July 7.—Rumors of domestic differences between Congressman James S. Cox and his wife came to a crisis when Mrs. Cox walked into the county clerk's office alone and filed a petition asking for divorce on the grounds of extreme cruelty.

Mrs. Cox was assisted by no attorney and the crude manner in which the petition is drawn up lends the officials to the belief that she wrote it herself.

Mrs. Cox does not specify the nature of the extreme cruelty, but mentions two instances, one in May and one in June of 1909. Neither does she ask for alimony nor custody of any of the children. When asked who her attorney is, she said she would be represented in due time by New York talent, but refused to divulge his name.

It is said that Mr. and Mrs. Cox separated in Washington in June and agreed that she should bring divorce action and that she would be financially taken care of.

Mr. Cox was out of the city and no statement could be obtained from him, but it is understood he would have not forth entirely different reasons in his petition. Rumors are afloat in his district involving several society persons.

Mr. and Mrs. Cox were married in Hamilton, O., May 25, 1893. They have three children—Helen, 17; James Jr., six, and John, 18 months.

—The Wonderful Amazon.

Although not the largest or longest river, the Amazon is the most wonderful river in the world, with a mouth 150 miles in width, and with a force of water that repels, or at least overpowers, the ocean to a distance of more than fifty leagues. Yet, in spite of the weight of the river, the tide makes its influence felt for 500 miles from the coast. The easterly trade winds blow almost invariably upward, so as to be ready to help the vessel against the adverse currents.

CHAPTER IV.

THE INSUBMITTIBLE CHASE.
HERE was not a handkerchief, more striking figure in the palace gardens on the night of the reception than Hollingsworth Chase nor one whose pulse proved Chase knew the world quite as well as it is possible for any one man to know it. His was a unique figure also, for he was easily distinguishable as the only American in the brilliant assemblage.

He was presented to the princess late in the evening, together with Duggs of the British office. His pride

A heavy hand fell upon his collar, and confidence received a severe shock. She glanced at him with an unaffected welcome, but with the air of one who was looking upon his face for the first time.

He could not again approach within speaking distance of the princess, nor did he presume to make the effort. Chase knew his proper place. "She was the guest, the most vivacious being in the whole assemblage. She had but to stretch out her hand or project her smile and every man in touch with the spot was ready to drop at her feet. At last she led her court off toward the pavilion under which the royal orchestra was playing. As if it were a signal, every one turned his steps in that direction. Chase and the Englishman had been conversing diligently with an ancient countess and her two attractive daughters near the fountain. Again the dapper director came forward to lend the museliens, and again he was most enthusiastically received. This time Chase was not where he could watch the princess. He found, therefore, that he could devote his attention to the music and the popular conductor. He was amazed to find that the fellow seemed to be himself. He was also surprised to find himself carried away by the fervor of the moment.

With the final crash of the orchestra he found himself shouting again with the others. Oddly, this time he was as much as they. A score or more of nervous, disapproving eyes were turned upon him when he yelled "Encore!"

"There will be no encore," admonished the girl at his side kindly. "It is not New York," she added, with a shy smile.

Ten minutes later Chase and the

HARRY K. THAW'S DOUBLE VICTORY

LEAVES MADHOUSE FOR JAIL
PENDING SANITY PROBE.

IS FAVORED BY WITNESSES

Former Gov. Stone of Pennsylvania
Tells of National Conversation
Prisoner Carried on About Going into Business as Lumber Dealer.

White Plains, N. Y., July 7.—With two important witnesses expressing belief in his sanity, and Justice Mills deciding he may stay in jail here instead of the asylum at Matteawan pending the inquiry into his sanity, Harry K. Thaw won a double victory in his battle for freedom.

Lawyer Morschauer said he desired to consult with his client frequently and that it was impossible for him to do so at the Matteawan asylum. Justice Mills added, however, that if Justice Gaynor or the Appellate division desire to transfer the insanity trial to New York county he will order the retransfer of Thaw to Matteawan.

After Justice Mills had heard the testimony of two witnesses produced by Lawyer Morschauer he adjourned the hearing until Monday.

The point which Justice Gaynor must decide is whether to take the case into a jurisdiction where District Attorney Jerome can oppose Thaw's application.

Ex-Gov. Stone Witness.
William A. Stone, former governor of Pennsylvania, was called by Lawyer Morschauer to prove that Thaw showed a normal state of mind in connection with the bankruptcy proceedings, in which the former governor acted as his attorney. Ex-Gov. Stone swore Thaw acted in a perfectly rational manner in all dealings with him.

The testimony of Mr. Stone was taken out of courtesy to him because he could not be present in court for some time owing to business engagements.

Justice Mills asked Mr. Stone if Thaw in talking to him about his father's will, spoke from memory.

Talks Rationally of Business.
"Yes, he spoke of his father's will, named the trustees and various items of property his father had devised," replied the witness.

The witness said Thaw talked to him about timber lands and discussed with him the advisability of going into the business of buying and selling timber when he got away from his confinement in the asylum. He declared Thaw would like to go into business in Pittsburg when he was released.

At that time (about a year ago), Thaw told the witness he did not think it was the proper time to embark in business because of the general depression in trade.

"Did his acts and conversation appear to be rational or irrational?"

Lawyer Morschauer asked, "Perfectly rational," the governor replied.

Sane, Says Robert Good.
Robert Good, a glass manufacturer of Poughkeepsie testified that he had visited Thaw frequently in the Poughkeepsie jail and that Thaw impressed him as being sane. He said Thaw talked about various authors and seemed to take a great delight in the poems of Robert Burns.

"Did he ever show any grievance against any one, or speak of any wrong?" Justice Mills asked.

"No, sir," replied the witness.

Thaw, who appeared the picture of health, was accompanied in court by his mother, Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, his sister, the former countess of Yarmouth; his brother, Josiah Thaw, and Roger O'Mara.

The prisoner was in good spirits and said he was hopeful of release from the asylum.

DEATH PACT PAIR KNOWN.
Identification of Suicide Victims Deepens Mystery Concerning Cause.

South Bend, Ind., July 7.—Discovery of the identity of the young man and woman who went to their death in a frail rowboat over the dam in the St. Joseph river at South Bend, Ind., deepened the mystery surrounding the tragedy.

The tragedy ended a romance between Herman Lindeman and Eleanor Zister, both of Chicago. While many persons declared the two were married Sunday at St. Joseph, Mich., several Chicago friends doubted the report.

All who saw the boat shoot over the dam into the rapids declared that Lindeman and his bride must have died in a suicide compact.

St. Joseph, Mich., July 7.—Careful perusal of the marriage records at the courthouse here as far back as June 18 failed to reveal any record of the marriage of H. Lindeman.

$150,000 Fire in Lumber.
Green Bay, Wis., July 7.—The mammoth plant of the Diamond Lumber Company at Green Bay caught fire early this morning. The plant was destroyed and the loss will be $150,000. Neighboring plants were for a time threatened.

Gombers Dined in London.
London, July 7.—Samuel Gomper, president of the American Federation of Labor, was the guest last night at a dinner given by the labor party at the house of commons.

FIRE CHECKED BY A CANNON.
Ball Fired into Oil Tank Prevents an Explosion.

Martinsville, Ill., July 7.—Fire started by lightning in one of the 35,000-barrel tanks of the Ohio Oil Company was under control last night. The loss is $25,000. The tank was punctured by a cannon shot and most of the oil drained out. This prevented an explosion.

The Vandalla Railway Company brought a special train with fire-fighting equipment from Terre Haute and 50 men on the train, assisted by more than 200 oil-field workers, succeeded in confining the fire to one tank.

SCHOOL ROOM NO PLACE FOR TEACHER WHO COUGHS

Springfield (Mass.) Educator Would Bar Round-Shouldered Instructors
—Blames Childs for Evil.

Denver, Col., July 7.—"The school room is no place for a teacher with a hacking cough and round shoulders and they should be kept out of it."

"The city is responsible for lowered mentality and a weakened body in an increasing number of school children."

"Give the physical body its education as you feed the brain its education and figures."

When William W. Hastings of Springfield, Mass., urged these proposals at the convention of the National Education association, the sentiment of teachers applauded. The sentiment was general for a more hygienic school room, both from the standpoint of the pupil and the teacher.

The question whether the American college has failed in its mission developed a debate in the department of higher education. Samuel Wendell Williston of the University of Chicago delivered an address on the subject.

In the department of special education Carroll G. Pearce of Milwaukee urged special care of the child "born short," and Sybrandt Wessellius of Grand Rapids, Mich., spoke of the duty of the state toward the "exceptional" child.

Both Mr. Pearce, who is a superintendent of schools, and Mr. Wessellius, who is a former state senator, were of the opinion that the child afflicted in mind or body should be made the subject of special care.

$500,000 LOSS BY FLOODS.

Several Missouri Towns Inundated and Crops Are Ruined.

St. Joseph, Mo., July 7.—The flood torments of Nodaway county are estimated at $200,000. The wheat crop will be a total loss in the county on account of the inability of farmers to get into the fields.

A cloudburst in Big Creek valley, near Pattonburg, flooded a large section of the town, and much live stock was drowned.

Three persons were reported dead at Pattonburg and almost all the residents, having taken refuge in the upper stories of houses, were without food.

Reports show alarming conditions both northeast and northwest of Chillicothe, on the forks of the Grand river. Damage to the extent of $100,000 is reported from Trenton.

Railroads in various parts of the state are under water.
